

Rick & Rita's New House

This is a photo of the back which includes the back view of the house, the swimming pool and all the trees that are around. To the left is an aerial view of the house that shows the lot and layout. We've had a few pool parties but they got cut short this last summer due to heavy rains – we lost almost 2 months of pool time. Hopefully 2007 will be better.

Photo of the front of the house, different angles.

Picture of den before moving in.

Photo of kitchen area and dining room from the kitchen.

Kitchen.

View of the master bath from the master bedroom. To the right the round shower can be seen.

Shot of the wide hallways.

Round master shower with two heads – nice!

View of pool from back of the house – the diving board is really fun.

Large living room, but the pool table is not ours – prior owners before we moved in.

View of fireplace in the den and the vaulted ceiling.

Shot of the bar between kitchen and dining room, showing wine rack – we don't drink, so it's empty.

Once we moved into the house, a lot of things were unfinished, and we made numerous improvements. One of them was adding this light kit to the master bath. In this shot you can see our cat getting a drink.

Before we moved the stuff in the house we bought a wall paper mural and installed it in Alyssa's room. She loves whales and fish.

This is Rick's new office (sort of messy at this stage).

Rick's office at night with the new desk light kit showing how it illuminates the workspace.

Wall mural in the living room where the pool table used to be.

Rita's new dining room table to go with her new dining room.

The patio near the pool and the master bedroom.

April and Jeana with photo shoot in front of mural.

Kid's playing at the shallow end of the swimming pool during the summer of 2006.

Kids playing near the diving board.

Someone taking a dive.

Panoramic view of sun setting in west from atop of the new house.

Panoramic view of the mountains and neighbors to the east
from the roof of our new house.

Sun setting in west

Clouds over the house

Another Sunset

Sunset against the mountains

Rainbow over the mountains